WHERE IS KWESSI DUNES 24°52'33.6"S 15°54'07.0"E

Kwessi Dunes is situated in 15,000 hectares of exclusive desert with access to Namibia's NamibRand Nature Reserve, just south of the dunes of Sossusvlei. The NamibRand is an private nature reserve of over 200,000 hectares (one of the largest in southern Africa) and was established to protect and conserve the wildlife of the Namib Desert. The landscape is compelling, with vast swathes of arid desert, gravel plains and pockets of green vegetation backed by mountains and distinct reddish dunes that have undoubtedly made the area famous. Also recognised as a Dark Sky Reserve, it lies in one of the naturally darkest (yet accessible) places on earth. Making it hands-down one of the most incredible places on earth to experience a starry-starry night.

WHEN IS A GOOD TIME TO GO

Kwessi Dunes is surrounded by hyper arid desert and is great all year round. In the dry winter months of April to October, the desert is pleasant and dry (with chilly mornings), whilst November to March brings thunderstorms and hotter temperatures.
